Mr. George Clark Choice of Liberals

Mr. George Clark, of Eagle Hill, was unanimously nominated Liberal candidate for the Red Deer constituency in the forthcoming federal election at the convention held at Red Deer on Thursday last.

Seventy delegates from all parts of the constituency were in attendance together with a number of supporters.

The names of Mr. T. McKercher of Olds, Mr. Ferguson of Trochu and Mr. Geo. Clark were presented to the convention but the first named gentlemen withdrew their names and Mr. Clark was the unanimous choice of the convention.

Mr. George Clark is the son of Dr. Michael Clark who, it will be remembered, served the Red Deer constituency with great distinction for a number of years. He is very well known in this part of the riding having served as reeve of the Municipal District of Westerdale for a number of years.

The following officers of the Liberal organization of the Red Deer constituency were elected:

President, Mr. P. Kemp of Red Deer.

Vice-Presidents: Mr. M. Maybank of Olds; Mr. W. Davies, Didsbury; Mr. A. E. Patton, Three Hills; Mr. F. H. Lloyd, Elnora; Mr. J. MacDonald, Eckville; Mr. H. T. Greave, Caroline and Mr. J. Shank, Nordegg.

Fashion Show Proves Popular

I.O.D.E. Sponsors Successful and Outstanding Event

Didsbury's first fashion show, which was held Saturday afternoon last, was a very successful event from every angle. There was a large and appreciative audience; the local merchants supplied a surprisingly large and fine array of beautiful garments, and the local ladies, who acted as mannequins, excelled themselves in the manner in which they modelled the different gowns, coats, hats, etc.

The stage and hall were beautifully decorated, the plants and flowers being supplied by Mr. J. V. Berscht.

The show opened with a wedding party, the gowns for which were supplied by R. H. Williams. This was followed by the modelling of sport clothes, coats, afternoon and evening gowns, and children's dresses, supplied by J. V. Berscht, E. G. Ranton, Mrs. Friesen and Mrs. Wilson.

Hats by Chauncy were supplied by E. G. Ranton, and other hats by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Friesen.

Mrs. Jack Pearson (piano) and Miss Evelyn Liesemer (cello) played a number of selections during the fashion parade, and Miss Marie Chambers gave an interesting talk on "Cosmetics."

Mrs. Hugot acted as mistress-of-ceremonies and announced the different models, while the Mesdames Woodlock and Marcellus directed the mannequins.

The following ladies acted as mannequins: Mesdames Woodlock, Marcellus, Julien and Fleury; the Misses B. Kendrick, Alice Pearson, Wynne Studer, Nola Finley, Lucille Smith, Evelyn Barnes, Ruth Liesemer, Lila Wrigglesworth, Lorna Clarke, Nelda Hugot, Lola Hunsperger, Noreen Woodlock, Marguerite Fisher, Isabel and Velma Joy Wallace.

Mrs. Russell Berscht was convener of the arrangements committee.

During the show afternoon tea was served by the ladies of the I.O.D.E.

Didsbury Band At Harmattan

The Didsbury Boys Band bucked heavy and muddy road on Friday evening to keep an engagement for a concert at Harmattan Hall, but had a very poor reception.

It appears that the hall manager after assuring the boys that nothing would interfere arranged to take an amateur play in which a good many of Harmattan young people were interested, to Sunde which seriously interfered with the attendance at the concert.

We consider this was poor sportsmanship on the part of the hall manager.

An Error.

An error was made in the report of the Mountain View council meeting published last week. Discounts on taxes should have read: "A discount of 10% will be allowed on current taxes paid before May 31; 7% between June 1 and September 1 and 5% between September 1 and December 15."

Organize for Jubilee Celebration

A meeting was held on Tuesday evening to make arrangements for the celebration of the Silver Jubilee and committees were appointed to take care of the various activities.

The children of the various rural schools will be invited to join with the town schools and parade to the school grounds headed by the Boys' Band. Here patriotic exercises will be observed and an address will be given by Mr. George Clark, of Eagle Hill.

After the exercises there will be sports for the children and selections will be played by the band.

It is hoped that every school in the district will co-operate in making this a successful celebration.

Import Bob-White Quail

Members of the Fish and Game association are importing 2 pair of Bob-White Quail as a nucleus towards introducing this splendid game bird into this district. They are being imported from the Jack Miner Game Sanctuary at Kingsville Ont.

Messrs. George Julien and Jack Fleury are responsible for importing these birds and will have charge of them during the season.

We understand that other Fish and Game associations are also importing some of these birds. They will attempt to raise a number of quail which will eventually be liberated in an effort to stock the district.

It is not a great many years ago that the Hungarian Partridge was introduced into the Calgary district and they have now scattered to all parts of the west. It is hoped that the introduction of quail will meet with the same success.

Stores Close Good Friday

The stores will be open this (Thursday) evening, and closed all day Good Friday.

United Church Issue Call to Minister

At a meeting of the official board of Knox United Church on Sunday last it was decided to tender a call to Rev. J. R. Geeson M.A., B.D. of Irma, Alta. to ministry of the church here.

Mr. Geeson occupied the pulpit of the church here on the last Sunday in March.

If the call is accepted it is expected that Mr. Geeson will come here early in May.

Credit Balance Devoted to Charity

Devoting a credit balance of an association about to disband to charity is both unique and creditable.

The Neapolis beef ring which has operated in that district for the last 16 years decided to cease operations and found themselves with a credit balance of $19.00. They have decided to vote this to charity and the amount will be divided equally between Woods Home and the Jubilee Cancer fund.

Didsbury Players Win Bridge Prizes

Al Azhar Shrine sponsored a province wide St. Patrick's Bridge Tournament during the week beginning March 18th. In this connection seven tables of bridge convened by Mrs. McGhee on March 21st, at the Fleury home.

An announcement of prize winners indicates that four prizes came to Didsbury:-

Mrs. Herman Hawkes, Second prize for district, score 3030.

Mr. E. V. Woodlock, Second prize for district, score 2920.

Mr. J. S. McCloy, third prize for district, score 3070.

Mrs. Friesen, Prize for low score.

Prizes were awarded on basis of the nearest to the average score for the Province which proved to be 2983.

Significant Trends

Whether they believe in them or not, and irrespective of the fact whether they are ardent supporters or skeptical critics, people are deeply interested in the outcome of the various experiments now being tried throughout the world in matters of government, economics and finance. Quite apart from the fact whether or not they are convinced that the old order has, as some contend, broken down beyond all hope of repair and is now definitely and forever passing away, or, on the contrary, still adhere to the view that while changes are taking place, mistakes corrected, abuses eliminated, and improvements made, the old order is essentially sound and will prevail and achieve greater triumphs than ever before, people cannot be indifferent to present day events and the influence which such events are bound to have upon their lives and the times in which they live.

But, as has been noted and commented on many times, we are a credulous people. Of the American people it was said that they thought prohibition, termed a noble experiment, would end liquor and the saloon, and later that they thought the repeal of prohibition would end the bootlegger. Now, under the N.R.A., the United States has embarked upon another experiment, —the business of making rules for business. Rules have been laid down in nearly 500 codes governing 500 industries; and the problem now is how these rules are to be forced. For it has to be recognized that there are many men in every trade who can be counted on to invent devices, as the bootlegger did, for chronic evasion.

As a matter of fact, a small army is now employed across the line in the task of ferreting out evasions and seeking to convict violators of the various N.R.A. codes and thus protect those who are honestly endeavoring to carry out the obligations imposed upon them and their businesses under the New Deal. But notwithstanding all these efforts, a well known authority makes the statement that it is quite safe to say that in the great majority of codes there is no enforcement because any attempt to enforce the rules would lead to abandonment of the code. For this reason there is a strong group in Washington which demands that an immense section of the rules be abandoned. In fact, the proposal is now seriously advanced that codes be applied only to those businesses which do an inter-State business and that they no longer be applied to the smaller concerns whose operations are more local and restricted to the State within which the business is located. This is a most significant development. It indicates that practical regimentation of business has its limitations.

Turning to the Canadian picture, it would appear that much the same thought is entertained by people on this side of the line. The recent voting throughout the three prairie provinces on the proposal to establish a compulsory egg and poultry pool is one indication. The scheme was defeated in Manitoba by a three to one vote, and in neither Saskatchewan nor Alberta was the required two-thirds majority obtained, and in Saskatchewan less than one-half of those entitled to vote even took the trouble to return their ballots, thus indicating either opposition or indifference which amounted to opposition in view of the two-thirds vote requirement to carry.

As a result of this voting, it is announced from Ottawa that the compulsory feature will be dropped from all other proposals for the inauguration of schemes under the National Products Marketing Act, and that while efforts will be continued to further develop the idea of co-operation in support of prices and marketing methods, the plan of making any of these schemes compulsory upon an opposing minority has been definitely abandoned. This, too, is significant as indicating that the Canadian people are not ready to accept either the theories or plans of Communism on the one hand or Fascism on the other hand but that they are still firm believers in the ideals and methods of a free democracy.

But, while thus revealing a degree of confidence in the existing order, and a belief that necessary reforms can be brought about to correct the evils and remove the abuses which have developed like barnacles upon it, there can be little doubt but that the minds of the Canadian people are firmly fixed upon achieving those very necessary reforms and to do so without loss of time. That is to say, the violators of proper, honest business ethics and methods will be brought to book, made to observe and live up to honest and fair-dealing methods, or forced out of business altogether. There is going to be a New Deal, but it will be invoked and enforced by a free democracy.

Canadian Aviation

Importance Of Canada As Link In World Air Highways

The importance of Canada as a main link in future world air highways was stressed by Hon. Grote Stirling, minister of national defence, at Montreal, in addressing the annual banquet which closed the two-day convention of the Canadian Flying Clubs' Association.

With the future of Canadian aviation in mind, the government looked to the C.F.C.A. to take a leading part. The minister regretted his inability to promise the association further assistance at the present time due to the state of national finances.

He trusted the opportunity would soon be forthcoming when he could feel justified in putting forward proposals to the cabinet that would enable the government, if they accepted his advice, to provide the assistance the association hoped for.

"A distinct relationship exists between the department of national defence and the Flying Clubs' Association," he said. The one-time expected clash of interests between the non-permanent flying forces and the flying clubs had never happened. It had been shown the clubs provided the very important task of training young men wishing to gain their commissions in the military aviation service.

COULD NOT SEW A BUTTON ON

Her Hands Were Helpless with Rheumatism

At one time she thought she would lose the use of her right hand. But "a blessing"—in the form of Kruschen Salts—put her right again.

"I was sure in a bad state," she writes. "In fact, I could not do my housework, I was so bad with rheumatism in my arms and hands. I could not sleep at nights, and I thought I would lose the use of my right hand. I could not hold anything, nor could I sew a button on. My arm would go dead. I was advised to try Kruschen, and inside of three weeks I found such a change. I have kept on taking it, and now I sleep all night—thanks to Kruschen's help and relief."—(Mrs.) J. H.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals, which are responsible for rheumatic agony. Other ingredients of these salts assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channel.

Preparing To Visit London

Advance Bookings Of Cunard White Star Line Indicate Many Will Attend Silver Jubilee

Large numbers of Canadians are preparing to visit London for the King's Silver Jubilee celebrations, commemorating the reign which began on May 6, 1910, and reaches its 25th anniversary on May 6 of this year, the date to be known as Silver Jubilee Day, according to advance bookings for the first Cunard White Star sailings from Montreal. These are on April 26 when the Alaunia to Plymouth, Havre and London, and the Andania to Glasgow, Belfast and Liverpool, will open the St. Lawrence season for this line.

These two sailings are sure to be popular because of the fact that tourist and third class passengers using these two sailings will still be able to take advantage of the special round-trip excursion rates of single fare and one-third which allow 15 days' stay in Europe. This rate is only good until April 30.

Another War Weapon

A German inventor, Herr Keilhaus, has offered the French government a new weapon which would deprive armed forces on land, at sea, and in the air of the power of sight. This weapon can project 1,000,000 candle-power flashes, capable of blinding anyone within its radius. Experiments were carried out on cattle half a mile distant. The beasts dropped senseless.

China's Food Problems

Little Arable Land Not Now Being Cultivated

Although China's population has increased by 31 per cent. during the last 60 years, despite famines, floods and civil wars, the area of land actually being farmed neither increased nor decreased during those six decades, according to findings given out by the national agriculture research bureau at Nanking.

The official report declares "too optimistic" the belief China's food shortage and over-population problems can be even partially solved by reclaiming land now not used, or by directing settlement to the open spaces of the great northwest. The survey confirms there is little arable land in China not now being cultivated, and classes the waste places of the northwest as largely unfit for farming.

Wards Of The Government

Bill Introduced In Ontario Legislature For Protection Of Quintuplets

With the aim of making the Dionne quintuplets "special wards of His Majesty the King, as represented by the minister of public welfare of Ontario," Hon. David A. Croll, minister of welfare and municipal affairs, introduced a bill in the Ontario legislature regarding the famous babies of Callander, Ont.

By the bill, cabinet is empowered to appoint a board of guardians with authority over the finances, education and physical well-being of the children.

These "active guardians" will share authority with the father, Oliva Dionne, the "natural guardian," and Dr. Allan Roy Daffoe, whether or not the physician is appointed as a guardian, Mr. Croll said.

World's Fastest Camera

Photographs Flame Travelling At 24,000 Miles An Hour

One of the latest wonders of scientific research is a camera capable of photographing flame travelling at 24,000 miles an hour.

The fastest camera in the world, it has just been perfected in London at the Department of Chemical Technology at the Imperial College of Science by R. P. Fraser, an inventor, and his assistant, Dr. W. H. Wheeler. It is called the Fraser High Speed Camera No. 5. It costs about £1,000 to build.

By the new knowledge it will give of the behavior of explosion flames the camera may be the means of saving hundreds of lives.

A moving mountain of sand at Cronulla, Australia, has buried a small forest as it slowly advances. Trees 30 to 40 feet high have disappeared beneath the millions of tons of sand. Meanwhile, the sea is eating into land on the ocean side of the "mountain," and every time there is a heavy storm part of a 250-acre government recreation area slips into the Pacific.

Trans-Atlantic Air Mail Is Expected To Serve Empire At About Cost Of Inland Postage

Sir Eric Geddes, chairman of Imperial Airways, said at a Press Club dinner in London that he believed a satisfactory trans-Atlantic air-mail service would be established in a year or two. Arrangements for this service already were being made in Newfoundland, he said.

The possibility of wider and cheaper empire air-mail service was mentioned by Sir Eric. With the help of the post office and the air ministry, he said, "we shall be able to carry air-mail to all the empire at no more cost than the present inland postage."

Arrangements were going forward in Newfoundland, he said, "for the arrival in a year or two of what we believe will be a satisfactory trans-Atlantic mail service and then we shall have practically linked the whole empire." He said new aircraft which Imperial Airways was building with the help of the air ministry was their attempt to solve the long sea crossing with the certainty necessary for a mail route.

The land-locked harbor of St. John's is expected to be used as the Newfoundland base for a projected trans-Atlantic air-mail service forecast in London by Sir Eric Geddes, chairman of Imperial Airways. It is understood the ocean line would be linked up with the Imperial Airways' eastern routes on the other side and with Canadian and American systems on this side.

Oppose British Meat Duty

Australia Objects Strongly To Proposed Levy On Empire Meats

Australia learned definitely that the British government will propose the imposition of a duty of two cents a pound on foreign meat, one cent on Empire meat, and discontinuance of the present quantitative restrictions on meat imports when present arrangements expire at the end of June.

The Commonwealth government is not prepared to agree to such a policy, Dr. Earle Page, deputy prime minister, said. He added it could only be introduced with the concurrence of all Empire countries and thus if objection was raised to any proposal contemplating the imposition of duties, such a proposal could not be put into effect.

Pending the forthcoming conferences in London between ministers of the various governments, it is anticipated that any further arrangements will be of a purely temporary nature designed to tide over the period elapsing before a long-term policy can be agreed on and put into effect.

Simplicity Is Best

Avoid Using A Long Word When Short One Will Do

"In writing and speaking, be simple," says Dean Alford, "be unaffected, be honest in your speaking and writing. Never use a long word when a short one will do, you always lose by using a long one."

"You lose in clearness; you lose in honest expression of your meaning, and in the estimate of all people who are qualified to judge, you lose in reputation of ability. Elegance of language may not be in the power of all of us, but simplicity and straightforwardness are."

Facts About The Bible

Over Three Million Letters Contained In The 66 Books

The Bible contains 66 books, of which 39 are in the Old Testament and 27 in the New. The Old Testament has 929 chapters, 33,214 verses, 593,493 words, and 2,728,100 letters. The New Testament has 260 chapters, 7,959 verses, 181,253 words, and 835,380 letters. For the whole Bible, the total is 1,189 chapters, 41,173 verses, 774,746 words, and 3,566,430 letters.

Egypt imported more than $1,000,000 pounds of cigarette paper in the last year.

GARDENING

Gordon L. Smith

Dig—Dig—Dig

Cultivation is even more important than good soil or fertilizer. A constantly cultivated garden, will withstand much drought for the simple reason that this stirring of the top soil prevents evaporation of moisture, and it also keeps down those robbers of plant food and water, weeds. The mechanical texture of heavy clay can be remedied by good cultivation. Cultivation is necessary especially during the early part of the season and more particularly after each shower. With some of the many hand, horse or tractor drawn garden cultivators on the market, this task is done quickly and without the old time back-ache.

Killing Out

Most damage to shrubbery, perennial flowers, roses, strawberry patches, fall wheat and other plants occurs during March or April. It is not the extreme cold of January and February that causes the trouble, but the alternate freezing and thawing and the drying winds of early spring. On fine days things start to grow and the sap comes up from the roots, but at night frost returns and injury results. Crowns, and stems are burst, fruit buds frozen, and grass and other perennial plants heaved out of the soil, their tiny roots broken and exposed to the high drying winds. Protection in the form of snow, straw, leaves, or old vegetable refuse, is advisable at this time and is especially necessary in Southern exposures where the difference between midnight and noon temperatures is much more extreme than elsewhere. This protection must stay on until the dangerous period is passed and then removed gradually. If left on too long, however, growth is spindly and backward.

A Short Cut

Good sized potatoes by early July can be produced in most parts of Canada, and this is the time the crop is really appreciated and worth some money. As soon as the ground works up nicely, a small planting may be risked. To further hurry things along, for two or three weeks before planting, it is advisable to spread the seed potatoes out in some frost proof place where they will get as much sun as possible through the window. Soon, healthy, stout sprouts will appear and if planted carefully, so as to avoid breaking off, the crop will be through the ground in a day or two.

Prairie Poultry Marketing Plan Fails To Carry Through Majority Vote Lacking Necessary Weight

Rust-Resistant Wheats

One Of The Greatest Triumphs Of Canadian Agriculture

In two or three years' time the Dominion Department of Agriculture expects to release one or more strains of rust-resistant wheat in substantial quantities. This most important statement cloaks one of the greatest triumphs of Canadian agriculture in overcoming a very destructive disease that attacks cereal crops.

As a result of years of unrelenting effort, co-ordinated by a committee known as the Associate Committee on Field Crop Diseases, strains of rust-resistant wheat, with what is believed will have the yielding ability, baking, milling, and early ripening qualities of such varieties as Marquis, have been developed. The members of this committee are representatives of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the National Research Council, and the Western Universities and Colleges, and their work, which covers every phase of cereal breeding and pathological researches on rust, smuts, foot-rots and other cereal diseases, has progressed with certainty in the face of what seemed to be insuperable difficulties. So that these strains of the new rust-resistant wheat may not be exploited by anyone by his own financial advantage, the distribution of the seeds will be controlled by the Cereal Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms, until a sufficient quantity has been developed to enable small lots to be distributed to a large number of farmers.

With the exception of a narrow coastal strip, Greenland is covered with a coat of ice 5,000 feet thick; the enormous ice cap is about 1,500 miles long and 630 miles wide.

Poultry producers of Saskatchewan and Alberta voted in favor of a scheme to regulate marketing of poultry and eggs under the Marketing Act, Hon. Robert Weir announced, but the majority was not sufficient to bring the scheme into effect. In Manitoba the scheme was buried under an adverse vote of three to one.

Several schemes under the act have been passed without a poll being taken. In these instances the minister has been convinced there was such unanimity of opinion no vote was necessary. When prairie poultry producers, however, brought forward a scheme, it was recognized there was a wide difference of opinion concerning it. The scheme was altered to meet requirements of the Marketing Act by the Dominion marketing board and preparations made to appeal to producers.

The Dominion government granted $50,000 to conduct the poll, to be divided $20,000 for Alberta, $20,000 for Saskatchewan and $10,000 for Manitoba. The conduct of the campaign was left with promoters of the scheme in the prairie provinces with the provision whenever halls were hired speakers opposed to the scheme should be given an opportunity to speak as well as those favoring it.

Every poultry grower with 25 poultry was allowed to register and vote in his or her post office. The poll was held from Feb. 16 to Feb. 23.

The result of the vote was 62.5 per cent. for the scheme in Alberta, 63.4 per cent. in Saskatchewan and 21.3 per cent. in Manitoba.

"That 94,237 farmers were interested enough in the marketing of their product to vote was in itself very satisfactory," said Mr. Weir.

"Some may protest that the majority in Saskatchewan and Alberta was sufficient to bring in the scheme but I think that would be breaking faith. The literature sent out by supporters of the scheme specified it would not come into effect unless 66 2/3 of the vote was favorable."

"The vote was not on the Marketing Act, it was for and against the particular scheme submitted by the producers themselves," the minister explained.

"I understand those opposing the scheme are preparing to submit another scheme which indicates it was not the principle of regulated marketing they objected to."

One of the chief complaints was said to have been the central selling agency. Many took the view there should be agencies in different parts of the country free to sell to any of the packers or other buyers of eggs and poultry.

Lifeboats Tested On Shore

One Goes To Plant Of Builder Every Trip

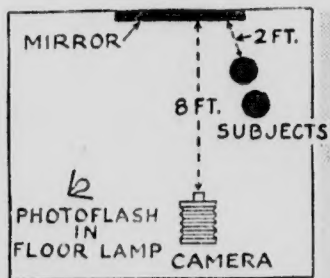

Every time the Bremen or the Europa of the North German Lloyd Line arrives in port one of her lifeboats is missing. Each ship carries 26 lifeboats, each of which carries 148 persons, and the thoroughness with which these motor-propelled boats are examined requires more time than is available during the few days the ship stays in port. Therefore, one boat goes to the plant of the builder each trip, and when the vessel gets back to Bremerhaven three weeks later the boat is returned to its place and another is taken off for examination. Each ship is equipped to handle 4,848 persons in lifeboats in case of an emergency that calls for the order to abandon ship.

Trees As Memorials

A suggestion has been made that throughout the Empire trees be planted to commemorate the King's Silver Jubilee, which is being celebrated this year. Trees are perhaps the most satisfying form of remembrance and though less enduring than stone monuments and more at the mercy of the elements they should last until the story of their planting is lost in the mists of tradition.

A mirror will bring out that priceless smile of youth.

You may think you have exhausted the supply of picture possibilities in your home but the chances are that there are countless interesting subjects you have completely overlooked.

It is the unusual that attracts attention but it is necessary to use your eyes and a little imagination and ingenuity to ferret out these exceptional views, angles, etc., and get pictures that show individuality.

Mirror pictures, for instance, are intriguing and offer unlimited possibilities if one will do a little experimenting. Let's take the above picture as an example.

When focusing for reflecting images only, it is necessary to add the distance from the mirror to the subject, to the distance from the mirror to the lens of the camera and then set the focus accordingly.

If it is desired to include the subject in the picture with the reflected image the focus should be set for the distance from the mirror to the lens. The smaller the lens opening the greater the depth of field and the sharper will be both images. Of course, the nearer the subject is to the mirror the less is required in the matter of "depth".

In the picture above, the subjects were about two feet and the camera six feet from the mirror. As both the subject and reflected image were to be included in the picture the focus was set at six feet. The diaphragm was set at f.16 and a photoflash furnished the light.

If the figures and camera were in a position to show only the reflected image in the picture being taken the focus would then have been set at the eight foot distance mark.

The diagram shows position of subjects, camera and photoflash when the above picture was taken. After setting the focus of your camera at the proper distance and the diaphragm at f.16 set the shutter for time exposure—"T". Do not have any bright lights in the room. Place photoflash lamp in ordinary floor lamp within reaching distance from the camera, as designated in diagram. Be sure to remove the shade from the lamp. Take your position at the camera and caution your subjects not to move. Press the cable release to open your shutter and immediately turn on the photoflash and then quickly close the shutter—and the picture has been taken. Photoflash lamps are made in two sizes, costing 15 and 25 cents each. For this type of picture the 25 cent size should be used.

In amateur photography experimenting becomes the spice of life and you will be surprised at the interesting effects you will get in working out "stunt" pictures on gloomy, rainy days when outdoor activities are taboo. Results in some instances may be rather grotesque but you will have a lot of inexpensive amusement and pictures that show individuality. Anyone can take the ordinary run of pictures but it requires a little ingenuity to get the unusual. That is what you should "shoot" for.

"Kritiks' Korner."

The I.O.D.E. and participating merchants are to be commended on the fashion show held last Saturday. It was evidence of a progressive spirit which is much needed in the town. It was too bad that the brilliant display of fashions and the mannequins had such an effect on the weather, but we hope for better luck next time.

We are glad to hear that the council intends to plant some shade trees this spring. Why not use some of them along Railway Street in front of the C.P.R. lot?

With the appointment of so large and representative a committee a program of activities for May 6 that will be satisfactory to everyone should be worked out. Let the committee be not afraid to be a little extravagant. These have been hard and dull times through which we are passing, and a celebration will do us good.

A "Clear-Up Week" should be arranged for in the near future. Spring is going to be upon us before we know it.

The Modern Farmer.

There is no question that the farmer's occupation is a skilled one. Many city dwellers have little idea of the amount of skill and detailed knowledge necessary for success in farming. This skill must take several forms. There is the manual dexterity and mechanical sense needed for operating both ordinary and modern farm machinery, and the knowledge required in dealing with horses and stock. And above all there is the judgment which decides the right moment to carry out this or that operation on any particular area of soil, and the managerial capacity to arrange operations and materials efficiently. The degree of forethought and skill demanded is much higher than is expected of the ordinary recipient of the basic wage for unskilled labour.—From the report of the Royal Commission on the wheat industry in Australia.

Courage of Farm Women.

"There is a good case for suggesting that every farmer and his family are entitled to a short holiday each year. In evidence given recently before the Royal Commission on Wheat Farming in Australia, many farmers spoke of the courageous support which had been afforded to them in their fight with adversity by their wives and daughters, and the commission feels that special reference should be made to the part which women are playing in maintaining the industry during the time of depression. On the average their work is harder than that of their sisters in the city, and the activities of various organizations in different States of the Commonwealth should have wider support in order that the home life of the wheat farmer can be improved."

The above extract from the report of the Royal Commission in Australia applies with equal force to the women on Canadian farms.

The Week in the Legislature

By T. B. Windross.

The Alberta legislature will close its session this week and it is expected prorogation will take place about Wednesday or Thursday at latest; as Friday will be Good Friday and the members will all want to be home for Easter.

Legislation is being speeded up every day now, and while there are no very lengthy speeches being delivered in discussion of various bills before the house, there is no lack of talk even so near the end.

Most of the legislation introduced has been of an amending character to bills already on the statute books, but some important new legislation has also been enacted. Perhaps the two most interesting bills have been those dealing with debt reduction for the farmers and methods of cultivation to control and cure soil-drifting. The new health insurance bill also finds a place with the new measures that mark the session as a constructive one.

During the past week whole days have been given up to the consideration of bills, and a large number of the ninety-odd measures introduced have been guided through the dubious ways of first, second and third reading.

Everything points to a winding-up of business and the next thing is plans for the coming elections, the date for which will be sometime in the last part of June, if present indications are to be reckoned with.

A private bill introduced by C. A. Ronning, U.F.A., of Camrose, which would make it compulsory for all teachers in the province to become members of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance, or a similar organization, aroused considerable interest. Mr. Ronning in sponsoring the bill explained that the teachers desired to have their calling placed on the footing of a profession in the province. He said it would increase co-operation between the department and teachers and also between the teachers and trustee boards.

The measure was opposed by two cabinet ministers. Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education, and Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health, telephones, and trade and industry, expressed opposition to the bill for differing reasons. The bill will go into committee.

Another bill that aroused considerable discussion when it came up for second reading was a bill regarding the reporting of judicial cases in the courts by the newspapers. The object of the bill is to prevent newspapers from publishing matter regarded as indecent, or that might influence the course of justice during a trial.

An attempt to have the bill given a hoist for six months was made by the Liberals in an amendment which was defeated by a vote that included members on all sides of the house.

An adjournment of the discussion was agreed upon so as to give the representatives of the newspapers opportunity to present objections before the agricultural committee. This was done Monday morning, when the agricultural committee heard the publishers' side of the argument. It will be further debated when it comes before the house for final reading.

Perhaps one of the most important bills, from the standpoint of the farmers, to come before the house was that dealing with methods of cultivation to promote control of soil-drifting. It provides for compulsory strip-farming and the planting of tree belts along the property of the farmer on the side from which the prevailing winds come. There was some opposition to this measure on the part of a few members, but the majority thought it would be of great value to agriculture in the province. Hon. F. S. Grisdale, minister of agriculture, said it would lay the groundwork for a rehabilitation scheme that would greatly benefit the agricultural industry in Alberta.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Sir Frederick Banting, professor of medical research at the Toronto University, has been elected to the fellowship of the Royal Society of England, it was announced recently.

A government revenue return revealed millionaires in the United Kingdom numbered 452 in the fiscal year 1932-33, which is 82 fewer than the previous year.

Twenty-five men will be added to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Force in Manitoba, it is announced. Development in northern mining areas has opened new territory the present force cannot cover.

The Indian princes will accept the India constitution bill, it was reliably understood, following a conference between the influential Maharajah of Patiala and the Earl of Willingdon, viceroy of India.

Proclamations will be posted in every post office in Canada proclaiming May 6, jubilee day, a public holiday, it was announced. The king's proclamation has been sent out from secretary of state department.

Aged Explorer Dies

Cape Grant In Franz-Josef Land
Named After English Adventurer

Death ended the suffering recently at Devon, England, of the 84-year-old explorer and big game hunter, W. J. A. Grant, who a year ago entertained at a "swan dance" to celebrate his then momentarily expected end.

Grant, who almost daily since prayed he might die, and had asked doctors to put him painlessly to sleep and been refused, died quietly. He suffered heart trouble and a complication of ailments.

Grant publicly advocated the practice of euthanasia by physicians, saying "take my own case. I am no use to anybody. I should be only too happy to be given a double dose of sleeping draught."

Months ago Grant instructed his mourners to "wear your gayest clothes, don't come in the miserable garb of woe."

He left a last message in which he said:

"Good health is the most important thing in the world and is a greater goal than the north pole. I tried to reach both and failed, although my grip missed by only a few inches each time."

Cape Grant in Franz-Josef Land is named for Grant. He invited 500 friends throughout England to his champagne supper and all-night party in January, 1934, to celebrate his expected death and they all came, including a bevy of beautiful dancing girls. But after two hours of sleep Grant arose to say he felt fine.

Little Journeys In Science

HYDROCARBONS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Scientists have found that the element carbon forms a larger number of chemical compounds than does any other element. At the present time over 300,000 compounds containing carbon have been discovered and every year new ones are being made in research laboratories. This vast number is due to the fact that carbon possesses the property of combining with certain elements in a number of different proportions, thus forming many different compounds with the same element. For example, carbon combines with the element hydrogen to produce nearly three hundred different compounds. These compounds containing only carbon and hydrogen are known as hydrocarbons.

Some hydrocarbons are gases, others are liquids, and still others are solids. Many of them are of great commercial importance. Certain hydrocarbons mixed in varying proportions make up such valuable materials as natural gas, gasoline, coal oil, lubricating oils, vaseline, and paraffin. Others serve as the raw material from which are made many of our most valuable dyes, drugs, and explosives.

Since there are so many hydrocarbons they are classified into groups or series. One of the most important of these series is the methane series. The members of this series are often known as the paraffin hydrocarbons, because ordinary paraffin is a mixture of the solid members of the series.

Methane or marsh gas is the first member of the methane series of hydrocarbons. It is the chief constituent of natural gas and is also often formed in marshes by the decay of vegetable matter under water. Methane sometimes collects in mines, and when mixed with air is called "fire damp" by the miners because of its great inflammability. "Damp" is an old name for gas. If such a mixture is ignited a very disastrous explosion occurs.

Hazing Was Expensive

Costs To University Of Alberta
Amounted To $50,051

Full costs of the Powlett "hazing" action against the University of Alberta amounted to $50,051, it was revealed in a detailed statement brought down in the legislature. The case followed confinement in mental hospitals of a student allegedly as the result of initiation brutality at the university.

Of the whole sum, the province is liable for a total of $48,701, while $1,350 was paid by the students' medical service.

The amount payable to the Powlett family on passage of the estimates for the fiscal year 1935-36 is $28,228, made up of a judgment for $20,000 and costs of $8,228.

GET RID OF THE CROWS

(By JACK MINER)

A great deal has been said about the crows' diet, so let me add my testimony. Crows will eat almost anything. Yes, and all about everything. I have had enough pet crows to find this out. But shelled corn will kill young crows about as quickly as any diet you can feed them. If you have a young one and are anxious to raise him, feed custard, one hen's egg to half a cup of milk (no sugar) and just watch him grow. I have fed them chopped up snakes and they always cawed for more snake. Old crows will graze like a chicken. During the winter in this section of the country their chief diet is corn, but if they can find carrion that is what will tickle their palates most.

A great deal has been said about the crows' diet, so let me add to the value of the crows; let me tell you this. A crow will do no more good on the farm than a leghorn chicken that will lay a dollar's worth of eggs a month, and as for the grasshoppers the crow destroys, let me advise you to keep a flock of turkeys and condense these grasshoppers into 50 cents per pound.

One corner of Jack Miner's crow trap.

And now to the sportsmen and bird lovers of the continent, let me hand this boiled-down sentence: Don't expect our desirable birds of Canada to increase until the crows are decreased. Saying nothing about the game birds destroyed by eating their eggs, I honestly believe, especially in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, that by eating the duck eggs, the crows are the cause of decrease of ducks more than the hunter and his gun. In Manitoba crows are so thick that I saw them nesting on the telephone wires. This stark, naked fact is what caused me to study crows so much doing the last five years. To reduce them by shooting campaigns has proven a failure. Thousands of men are trying that and, in spite of their many varieties of decoys, the crows are increasing. Here is where my life's study of them helped me out, for I know how shy and cute a little shooting will make them. At last the idea of catching them presented itself to me and immediately I could see results. More study increased my faith until I simply had to try it out.

Since I knew I would have to bait, I at once called up Mr. Art Brown, one of our Kingsville fishermen, and he agreed to let me have a truck load or so of fish heads, scales and entrails, providing I got them off the dock before the health officers put him off. Next, I secured a dead horse or so and was about all set for crow bait. Then I built the net on the same principle as I had built my net to catch and tag geese, but much smaller, the exact dimensions being six feet high, 12 feet wide and 70 feet long. I started building the net on a Thursday and finished it Saturday, doing practically all the work myself. And on the following Tuesday I caught 510 crows at one catch. While there may be dozens of other ways to control crows, yet I do know this method, if put into practice, would soon reduce their numbers to the same proportion as they were 50 years ago.

About the only fault I have heard about my crow net is that it is altogether too expensive. This surely must be a Scotch complaint, for I know two young men that built a crow net last winter and caught as high as 237 at one catch and the net cost them seven dollars. Of course, this one was built of junk material, such as poles from the woods and old fish netting, but it caught the crows just the same. To build a neat net as large as mine and to use

A Plausible Story

Flea Was Responsible For Founding
Of Overseas Empire

A flea was the granddaddy of the British Empire we are told by Dr. Thomas W. M. Cameron. From his institute of parasitology at Macdonald College, Quebec, he tells a plausible story. The flea, he says, caused the black death in Europe. This ruined English agriculture and shifted it into sheep growing. This made wool and broadcloth England's staple products and led to the necessity of finding foreign markets. This led in turn to the founding of the overseas empire.

"We sure did. And on the way home, when Dustin tried to ride down in the golpe de caballo, I upset him and I went through his pockets. I found in his pocketbook a note for eleven thousand borrowed on the Hour-glass that he got from Mr. Pegram. Pegram sold the note to Dustin. That's how things stand."

"Uh-huh. And that means that if Dustin sues out the note, he'll have Joe's share of the Hour-glass. Joe can't meet that note right now, you know."

Again Stone nodded.

"And that means, of course," said Crewe moodily, "that Dustin can ruin Joe. Joe's past sixty right now. He only knows cattle. This is his last stake. You know Edith right good. If she ever gets the idea into her red-head that, by marryin' Dustin, she can save her father, she's damned likely to do it. She'd even marry that dirty hound Dustin to save Joe."

"You forget one thing . . . two things. . . . That ore may be what I feel sure it is. . . ."

"It'll take a year to get even a hundred per cent. mine to workin'," said Crewe. "There'll be a lawsuit first over it."

"We'll find that man Kane," said Stone confidently. "And, too, Gerald Keene'll be in to-morrow night. Something'll turn up."

"By Heavens, that's so. If this Gerald Keene is like his uncle, he'll never see old Joe shoved to the wall. I'm goin' in to Seco to meet him to-morrow. I've got to go to the bank to try to raise money for our payroll. . . . Nine hundred dollars. You better go with me."

"I'd like to see you stop me. I'm for the bunkhouse now." And Stone strode back toward the house.

Halfway to the bunk-house he was stopped by Edith. For a moment she regarded him wordlessly. Her lips were unsmiling, but there was a light in her eyes that he had never seen but once.

"What has happened?" she asked breathlessly.

"Not much. I told Jameson of the Seco paper about the ore and he will have Buxton give an expert opinion on it. The most important thing is that he's tryin' to find Kane."

"That can't help much," she said. "My one hope is in Daddy's new partner, Mr. Keene. He may be able to help us if he will. Do you know what that beast Dustin said to Daddy . . . ?" She told him pretty much what Crewe had already said.

"Of course he wants to marry you," he said curtly. "Who in his senses wouldn't? . . . And at a sudden light in his eyes, she gave back a little and her laugh was a little strained. "The fool. . . . The utter fool to think that he can buy a girl like you. . . ."

"What do you mean by that? Buy me?"

For one brief minute he could not decide whether to tell her or not. . . . Then he told. Her eyes widened as she listened and when he stopped, she laid a hand gently on his arm.

"I'm glad you told me this," she said quickly. "I knew Daddy had borrowed some money but I did not know from whom he got it. . . ."

"Your father doesn't yet know that Dustin holds the note," he said. "You'd better not tell him that yet. Wait till Keene gets here."

"I will be careful. I am glad to know the worst at least. . . . I know at least where the thunder will come from."

"You will not even consider marryin' that man Dustin, will you?"

"Would you drink poison if you were thirsty and if you knew it was poison?" she countered. "Good night." But her eyes told him untellable things.

Crewe drew him aside after dinner the next day.

"Darn it all," he said. "Old Joe insists on goin' in to Seco with us. I tried to head him off. If he goes to the bank to get the money for the pay-roll, he may find out about that note. It's sure to come up. If he finds that Pegram sold his note to Dustin, he'll likely go on the prod."

Even Edith could not keep her father at home. During that drive he was cranky and querulous, and Stone sensed fight.

"Go straight to the bank. . . . Carr's usually pleasant voice was a snarl.

Stone headed the car for the bank and stopped under a tree and Carr, with Crewe at his heels, strode into the bank. Peters, seeing them enter, ducked into his cage, and old Pegram, his face flushed to a dusky tone, dived like a rabbit for his private office. The next moment Joe Carr burst into the room. A sudden babel of raised voices swung out of the empty bank.

"Good Lord," muttered Stone. "The fat's probably in the fire by now. I wonder if I had better have told him about that note of his that Dustin holds."

He was dimly aware that the centre of the trouble had drifted into Pegram's private office. One or two men in the street, hearing the voices raised in anger, stopped, grinned significantly and went on up the street. It was no new thing in Seco to have a sudden war start in Pegram's office. Suddenly old Joe Carr shot out of the place. His very beard was curling with wrath and his eyes were blazing. He stumbled into the car and Crewe pitched in beside him.

"Take it easy, Joe," he said in a low tone. "No need to let all Seco know your affairs. Take it easy, I tell you. Did you get the cash for the pay-roll?"

"Oh, that! Yes. I got that on a thirty-day note for fifteen per cent. . . . He laughed mirthlessly. "Do you know what that damned dog Pegram has done?" he said in a low, tense tone. "He held my note for eleven thousand secured by the half of the Hour-glass. Damned if he hasn't sold the note. . . . To Dustin, of all men! That's why that damned cur had the nerve to come to me to tell me he wants to marry Edith."

His face suffused with blood and his breath drew hard.

"I told Pegram I'd settle that note up on time."

"So I will, just as soon as I can make arrangements with Gerald Keene, my partner. Damn it all! He'll buy the ranch from me if I say the word. How do I know? Hell, man! Isn't this Gerald Keene old Peter Vinton's kin? Wouldn't I have done the same for old Peter?"

And Frank Crewe, who knew that Joe was speaking the plain, unvarnished truth, said nothing. Carr snatched out his watch and glanced at it.

"We've got time to get a drink at the Silver Dollar before we meet the train," he snapped.

"We don't want anything to drink," expostulated Stone. "It's late now. The only reason you got into the bank was because it's open after hours."

Carr glared at him. For an employee to give him any back-talk was unheard of but . . . He reflected that this man Stone was a close friend of this Gerald Keene, and this man Keene was an unknown quantity.

"You go to hell, son," he said with heavy pleasantry. "You do as you're told. Drive to the Silver Dollar."

Stone glanced at Crewe and a quick nod reassured him. He stopped the car before the Silver Dollar and stayed in the car while Carr, with Crewe behind him, entered the place. A moment later a hand was laid on his arm and Jameson stopped by him.

"I got some news for you, Stone," he said briefly. "I took that ore to Buxton. He's about crazy over it. He's says it's 'ham boiled in champagne.' You know what an assayer means when he says that. He kept at me for an hour askin' where it comes from and if there is much of it. I stalled him off. By the way . . . How did that big sample get covered with blood?"

"Big sample? . . . Stone stared at him. "Blood? . . . What are you talking about, Jameson?"

"I'm talkin' about that biggest sample that you brought in. You had it in your coat pocket. Did you have a fight?"

"No. I don't understand. I seem to remember that I did notice a dark stain on it when I picked it up. . . . By the way, I got that ore specimen from the place where the camp-fire was. That's probably where the blood came from. Have you succeeded in finding old man Kane yet?"

"No. No one has seen him for some time. They tell me he was being grub-staked by Dustin at the Broken Spur. That's what you said, too. I may have to see Dustin. It's barely possible that that old fool Peyotl Gregg may be able to give us some information about Kane. I saw

Crow Destruction.

National Crow Destruction
Week—April 22nd to 27th.
Better Get Ready.

The Saskatchewan Fish and Game
League are sponsoring a carefully planned crow destruction, first step in this campaign being established throughout Canada of a National Crow Destruction Week, commencing April 22nd.

Ray Holland, trained observer and editor of "FIELD AND STREAM," while on a Saskatchewan shooting trip in the fall of 1934, established that one flock of crows which passed him within the space of one hour or so, contained 150,000. Assuming that one-half of these crows were successful in destroying one game-bird's nest, of an average of eight eggs, then one million game-birds were denied the right to live by this one flock of filthy marauders. How many similar flocks exist in the wide space between Halifax and Vancouver no one knows, nor is it possible to even guess at, the total damage inflicted by these black-hearted pilferers on the game and song-bird wild life of the country.

The Didsbury Fish and Game
Association has made arrangements with the municipalities of Mountain View and Westdale to pay a half cent each for crow and magpie eggs, and 2c for each mature head of crow or magpie.

Eggs and heads should be delivered to the Adshead Garage for checking, and a slip will be given for presentation to the municipal secretaries.

This arrangement is open only to June 1.

Westerdale Notes

A farewell party was given for
Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wigley, April 9, at the home of Mrs. Jones, Mrs.
Wigley's mother. About 30 or 35 friends and neighbors helped to make the evening a success. Bridge was played until midnight, when lunch was served. The remainder of the night was spent with dancing, recitations and songs. Mr. and Mrs. Wigley have lived in the vicinity of Westerdale most of their lives, both being educated in Westerdale school and are highly respected and will be greatly missed in the young people's circles and clubs. Mr. Bob Heaton presented them with a beautiful mantle clock,
a gift from the school board as Mr.
Wigley had been a willing worker on the board for years. Kempton Rowell, president of the Young People's Bridge Club presented them with a set of silverware as a token of friendship.

Mr. and Mrs. Wigley expect to move to their new home near Peers, Alberta, about May 1. That good luck and prosperity go with them to their new home, is the wish of the community.
